

YOU CAN ESTABLISH A SALVATION ARMY LEGACY

DOING
THE MOST GOOD

The Salvation Army College For Officer Training offers a full spectrum of enduring opportunities to recognize the gifts of officers, family members and friends. Named locations are designated in honor of, or in memory of, an individual or group.

Campus areas that may be named for a donor include classrooms, conference rooms, areas of the college library, lecture halls, chapel appointments, gardens, boardroom tables and chairs, the Tile Wall of Honor and more.

The cadet scholarship program allows benefactors to directly fund the training of Salvation Army officers. Endowed named memorial scholarships provide resources in perpetuity for cadets in need.

The Salvation Army Museum of the West will have rooms, collections, display cases and other items for tributes and memorials.

Crestmont Circles and the William Booth Society recognize individuals who make significant gifts to The Salvation Army College For Officer Training At Crestmont.

For more information and consultation about establishing a named legacy please call (310) 265-6213. Or you may prefer to simply make a donation to the college, by returning the form below with your check, money order or credit card information.
